We continue to be humbled by the support we are receiving from our McLean families, as well as from our neighbors and partners in the community. Over Mother's Day weekend, our table was not only overflowing with gifts and flowers to be delivered to our mothers on campus, but also with meals and treats for our staff working on the holiday. It is with full hearts we begin the week caring for our precious community.

Ongoing interventions and preventative actions remain top priority and include continuing to restrict visitors on our campus except at end-of-life, additional enhanced use of PPE as recommended by the CDC, and closely following all hygiene and sanitation protocols put forth by local and national health organizations.

We know that we are doing everything we can to maintain the health and safety of our entire community.

We are tireless in our efforts, diligent in our practices and remain steadfast in our mission to care for our residents as we continue to fight this relentless, invisible enemy.
